To add decorating splendor to your game room, living room, den or a special place in your office, these magnificent thoroughbred masterpieces lend a touch of classic elegance. Painted by noted horse portraitist Elmore Brown, here are four perceptive scenes in the open land of wide meadows and green fields and magnificent thoroughbreds. Whether it is a powerful stallion overlooking his herd or a mother and foal resting or cavorting in the open meadow, the gleaming flanks, the flowing manes, the rich contrast of sleek bodies, and deep brown eyes against the blues of the skies and the greens of the meadow, make masterpieces of color and movement that are breathtaking in their scope. Of course it is literally impossible to capture the artistry and detail from the small illustrations here. Only when you actually see these works can you fully understand their drama and appeal.

STAMP AND COIN COLLECTOR'S CORNER

by GEORGE ALLARD

EGYPTIAN STAMP ISSUE A TRIBUTE TO NASSER

Recently a set of four stamps were issued in Cairo, Egypt, commemorating President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Born in Alexandria on January 15, 1918, his patriotism was evident during his secondary school days. He headed executive committees, took part in, was wounded and arrested in student demonstrations. He led the people of Egypt in the July 1952 revolution and the wars of 1956 and 1967. In all times of distress he was their leader. His death on September 28, 1970 was a terrible shock to his followers and the world.

This set of two depicts a portrait of him on the low values, and a portrait beside the mosque which holds his tomb.

A FOND DEDICATION TO SOME VITAL AIRCRAFT

Papua and New Guinea issued a set of six multi-colors that highlight the vital role that air service played in the Territory's development over the past twenty-five years.

Four of the stamps are 5¢ values that are printed alternately on the same sheet of 100, so that a block of four stamps contains all four designs. The 25¢ and 30¢ values are printed in individual sheets.

The four 5¢ values show a Douglas DC6B, a Lockheed Mark II Electra, a Boeing 727 or a Fokker F-27 Friendship plane. The 25-cent stamp features one of the most famous aircraft ever built, the Douglas DC3 and the 30-cent displays the Boeing 707.

A SHORT HISTORY OF U.S. COMMEMORATIVES

Many people collect 'topical' stamps but bypass the most interesting, educational, and beautiful ones of all . . . United States Commemoratives. Strictly speaking of course, they are not topical, but — in a sense they are, for they encompass our history and growth.

The first set, the Columbian Issue containing sixteen stamps from 1-cent to and including $5, was issued in 1893. All but the highest value of this set are from paintings, some of which hang in galleries in Washington, D.C. and New York. The $5 stamp has the profile of Columbus from a cast of the Columbian Exposition Commemorative Half Dollar.

The next issue came five years later in 1898, this was the Trans-Mississippi set of 9. Here again are paintings, drawings, and photographs.

All commemoratives were issued in sets until 1909 with the Lincoln Memorial 2¢ red, commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth. From then on most were single issues but perhaps we are returning to sets once again as there have been a few in recent months.

All of us realize the 'early commemoratives' are expensive. However, many of the issues may be found with slight flaws at quite reasonable prices.

A few years ago a paper-back "U.S. COMMEMORATIVE STAMPS" by Valerie Moolman, published by Cornerstone Library, stimulated collections of this kind. Collector or not — this publication makes very educational and interesting reading.
